MEXICO INVADED.

A Filibustering Expedition Starts from Texas.

A BAD MAN GOES TO WAR.

With an Army of 150 Men He Crosses the Rio Grande. The Mexican and United States Troops are Looking Out for Him.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 16.—Catarino G. Garcia, the Mexican renegade who has been editing a newspaper in Duval county, Tex., in which he vigorously attacked the government of Mexico, crossed the Rio Grande with 100 well armed and mounted men last night, his avowed object being to start a revolution. He expects a strong reinforcement from the other side. The movement creates considerable excitement in Matamoras, and the officials are using the wires freely.

MORE DETAILS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—The Picayune's San Antonio, Tex., special says: The report, direct and authentic, of an incipient revolution movement in Mexico, was received here today. Capt. E. T. Randall, Fifth infantry, commander of Fort Ringold, wired General Stanley to-day that the notorious C. G. Garcia had crossed the Rio Grande from Starr county into Mexico with fifty armed men for the purpose of inciting a revolution.

He crossed fourteen miles below Rio Grande City to the town of San Francisco. General Stanley entered Randall to take a detachment of cavalry to investigate the case, to patrol the river and cut off the retreat of the band in case they returned.

The Mexican authorities at San Miguel have been wired and they are in pursuit of the invaders. Garcia is a professional desperado, bandit and raider. He is a desperate character who once held power in Tamaulipas, but has been out with the government for many years. He has been wanted in Starr county, Tex., for his misdeeds and escaped a body of rangers about six weeks ago, when he crossed from Mexico to Spairo. It is said he formed his plans and started on his raid this time from Chaco Alto, in Starr county.

Nebraska Democrats.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 16.—The great struggle in the Democratic convention which assembles here to-morrow evening will be over a resolution to endorse the course of ex-Governor Boyd in vetoing the Newberry maximum freight rate bill. On everything else the convention will probably be most harmonious. Judge J. H. Broady of Beatrice will probably be nominated by acclamation for judge of the supreme court, the only name mentioned for regent is that of Francis Brogan of Omaha. When it comes to endorsing Boyd there will be bitter opposition, with a strong probability that the resolution will fail of passage. It has been settled that the platform will demand a reduction in railroad rates. Boyd's friends will claim that the Newberry bill was unreasonable, and for that reason Governor Boyd was not pledged to approve it on a platform which did not mention a reasonable maximum rate bill.

A Charitable Society.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 16.—Government detective W. C. Agnew left for Portland, Ore., tonight with little Harry C. Whitbeck, aged 7, who was kidnapped from the residence of his father, George W. Whitbeck, a millionaire, of Portland, six years ago. At the time of the kidnapping Harry was only 14 months old. No clue of the child was found till six months ago, when the detective got a clue at Omaha, followed it up to Boston, and six miles from this city, and located the boy in the family of a mill worker named Long. He recognized the child by a birth mark. The woman who brought the boy to the long family died some time ago.

Mr. Whitbeck has spent $20,000 looking for his boy. The detective will receive $5,000 reward.

Colorado Masons Grand Lodge.

DENVER, Sept. 16.—At this morning's session of the Colorado Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. there were a number more delegates present than yesterday, there being several late arrivals. A charter was granted to the new Yampa lodge at Craig, Routt county, A. M. Darnell, worthy master. The grand lodges of Victoria, South Australia, and Kansas, were recognized. The bogus Reed lodge recently organized in Ohio was repudiated. The following appointments were then made: Grand Chaplain, A. L. Williams; grand orator, L. L. Herron; grand lecturer, W. D. Price; grand marshal, Henry T. West; J. G. D., W. W. Rollet; S. S., Richard Harvey; J. G. S., W. G. Evans; grand tyler, Thomas Linton; The installation of officers occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This evening a grand banquet will be given by Temple lodge, No. 84, and to-morrow the Grand Royal Arch chapter will meet.

Train Robbers in Indian Territory.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16.—The dispatch from Muskogee, I. T., says: The Missouri, Kansas and Texas south bound passenger train was held up and the express car robbed at Wheelock last night at Lafferty, four miles north of Wagoner. The robbers covered the train officials with their pistols and two of them climbed into the express car. They ordered the express man to open the large iron safe which he was unable to do and it took considerable arguing before he could convince the robbers of his utter inability to comply. They thereupon dumped the small iron chest which contained $2,560 out of the express car door and breaking it open took the entire amount.

Oklahoma Counties.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Secretary Noble today issued an order defining the boundaries of counties in Oklahoma in compliance with the act of congress authorizing him to survey of the lands in Oklahoma are opened to settlement to divide it into counties which shall contain as near as possible not less than 700 square miles. The counties whose boundary lines are thus fixed are Logan, Kingfisher, Canadian, Oklahoma and Cleveland. As the law provides that the unnamed counties created (which are also defined) until their names shall be announced at the first election, the secretary applies and defines them in alphabetical order.

Mahone Charged With Treachery.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The members of the committee appointed at a conference of Virginia Republicans here yesterday, put off all but to-night for a Republican state convention to be held at Roanoke, Va., October 14 to 16. The event ignores General Mahone's leadership of the Republican state committee and refers to him as being responsible for a crime of political treason in advising the Republicans to support the candidate of another party. Democrats are arrayed as the enemies of the south. The call also calls for the holding of the county conventions to select delegates for the general gathering at Roanoke. The call is signed by Fred H. Parsons, Major Edward McFarlan, Gen. J. E. Ridler, Col. C. C. Tompkins, Col. E. Lee, H. L. Lyman, Jacob Gray, G. E. Bendel and Major O. E. Hine. Members of the committee say to-night that they have taken no steps to depose Gen. Mahone as his committee. They regard and so having committed that act himself and to have practically abandoned the party. They have passed no resolutions and taken no action beyond providing the way to secure an honest expression of public opinion. They do not even assume to say that that expression will be. The feeling here of the Blue Ridge sneers to be that unless whatever workers may come from Petersburg, our committees cannot pass the resolution that the state is given over to anarchy and that we cannot abandon the contest in which we have been steadily gaining ground for the last ten years. Our party consists principally either of laboring men or of men connected with mines and manufactures. The office-holders and office seekers, although omnipresent, constitute a small proportion of the party strength. All the proposed convention to do is to appoint a committee to take temporary charge of affairs until a permanent organization in the state can be effected. In the meantime, there is no objection to the present chairman commanding the forces in retreat. The effort sought to be made now is to stop the stampede and save the standards.

Officials Refuse to Talk.

DENVER, Sept. 16.—There has for some time been much talk to the effect that the Denver and Rio Grande road was gradually being bought under Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe influences. The story is now current that since Chairman Coppell of the Denver and Rio Grande and President Manvell of the Santa Fe met in Denver a few days ago an alliance has been effected which makes the Rio Grande in effect a feeder for the Santa Fe system. This is practically a combination against the Burlington, Missouri Pacific and the Rock Island. Officials of the Denver and Rio Grande here will not admit the truth of the story, neither will they deny it, but one said that a few days would show some startling developments.

BASE BALL.

Western Association.

SIOUX CITY—KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 16.—The Sioux Citys took to-day's game by outbatting and outfielding the home team. The game was almost void of interest. Shriberck's work at short and Raymond's at third were the only features.

The score: Sioux City 11; Kansas City 4.

National League.

BOSTON—CHICAGO.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The Bostons have at last won a game from Chicago: the last of the season. Chicago played heavily in the field and at the bat, and the home team won rather easily. Score: Boston 7, Chicago 2.

CLEVELAND—PHILADELPHIA.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16.—Cleveland won two games here this afternoon easy, the home team playing like a lot of school boys. Score: First game, Cleveland 11, Philadelphia 1; second game, Cleveland 9, Philadelphia 3.

At New York—First game New York 9, Pittsburg 2. Second game New York 1, Pittsburg 7.

American Association.

At Columbus—Ten innings, Columbus 7, Athletics 6.

At Milwaukee—Milwaukee 11, Baltimore 4.

At Louisville—Washington 9, Louisville 5.

At St. Louis—St. Louis 10, Athletics 7.

Denver Plays Solitaire.

DENVER, Sept. 16.—Denver won another game to-day by appearing on the grounds in uniform and having the game declared in their favor due to inability to machine.

Irrigation Convention.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 16.—To-day's session of the irrigation congress was devoted to consideration of the report of the committee on resolutions submitted by Chauncey Irish of California. It recommended to the convention the discussion of the following topics: "Should congress donate land outright to the states and territories, or should congress in trust grant grants in land? Shall donations or grants in land be of the arid lands only, or include the entire public domain within the states and territories to be benefited, or shall it be limited to a number of acres of both or either? Upon what conditions and with what restrictions should a grant in trust be made? What may be imposed upon the states and territories benefited in the form of federal action to compel the preservation of water sources by protecting the forests which guard them? Instead of such grant or donation of land, is it advisable for the federal government to retain the public domain and itself enter upon the work of reclamation of said land and then transfer it to actual settlers?

The congress went into committee of the whole with Senator Stewart of Nevada in the chair. Francis G. Newland of Nevada made a speech of some length.

Mr. Estee of California took exception to the speech. He said congress had not assembled for the purpose of discussing politics, but irrigation. In the main point, however, he agreed with his predecessor. Resolutions providing for the issue of bonds to the amount of $100,000, to be expended in irrigation, said bonds to be redeemable in treasury notes issued against them, were offered and laid over for further consideration.

At the afternoon session there were various resolutions offered regarding the disposition of public lands, and a number of speeches were made. Judge Goodwin of The Tribune, Senator Warren of Wyoming, W. H. Mills and John P. Irish were the chief orators.

A Matter of Time only.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—War has broken out again among the big watch makers of America. Last Monday the Elgin and Waltham watch manufacturing companies issued a circular to the jobbers announcing a reduction of 20 per cent. on all 18 size movements. The Elgin company will lose $100,000 in rebates to jobbers who now hold in stock the goods on which the reduction is made, and $300,000 on the movements now held by the company. The Waltham company will lose something over a million by the reduction. It is said the reduction is made in an effort to wipe out of existence the Dueber Watch Case company.

A Noted Case.

HIGGINS, Kan., Sept. 16.—The case of the state against James Dickson, charged with murder of the noted Sam Wood, was commenced to-day in the district court, Judge Bodkin presiding. The entire time of the court was occupied in examining jurors. A jury had not been selected when court adjourned this evening. Every precaution is being taken to see that no person carrying firearms is allowed to enter the court room.

A Kansas Bank Failure.

LYONS, Kan., Sept. 16.—The Bank of Lyons, supposed to be one of the strongest financial institutions in the state, made an assignment of all its assets to-day to T. Nicholas for the benefit of its creditors. The doors were closed at noon and a notice announcing the assignment was posted. The notice concludes as follows:

"It is believed that assets will equal the liabilities."

No statement of the condition of the bank can be procured from the bank's officers.

Checker Championship.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A checker match for the championship of the world and a purse of $1,000 is now being played in this city between Charles Barker, of Cambridgeport, Mass., and Jas. P. Reed, of Chicago. So far six games have been played, Barker winning one and the remaining five being drawn. There are twenty-four games yet to be played.

A Stay of Execution.

DENVER, Sept. 16.—It is likely that the Pueblo murderer, Davis, will be granted another stay of execution. The sixty days' reprieve granted by the governor has nearly expired and the supreme court has not yet been able to hear the arguments on the writ of error. The defense will petition the governor for a further extension of time.

TWO CONVENTIONS.

Massachusetts Republicans and New York Democrats

BOTH PLATFORMS AND TICKETS.

Flower is the Lucky Man in New York, while Allen Secures the Nomination in Massachusetts—Silver Resolutions Adopted.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—When Chairman Burlett called the Republican convention to order in Tremont Temple at 11:10 o'clock he spoke to one of the largest gatherings that has ever attended the deliberations of the party delegates. The committee on permanent organization reported Henry Cabot Lodge as permanent president with forty-five vice-presidents at large, and seventy-eight vice-presidents by districts. Mr. Lodge made a speech of great length, covering most of the national and local questions of the day. He was listened to with the closest attention, frequently receiving generous applause.

The report of the committee on credentials showed that thirty-nine and 312 towns were represented in the convention by 1215 out of 1320 delegates.

The Hon. F. T. Greenhalge of Lowell was appointed chairman of the committee on resolutions. On motion of Mr. Chamberlin of Cambridge, the convention voted that the nominating speeches for governor should not exceed twenty minutes, and the convention then proceed to ballot.

Ex-Governor John D. Long then rose amid applause, and in a graceful speech presented the name of W. W. Crapo of New Bedford as a candidate for governor. The name was received with enthusiastic cheering.

Mr. Cogswell of Salem then took the platform and amid the greatest excitement and the greatest enthusiasm and cheering, placed in nomination the name of the Hon. Chas. H. Allen of Lowell.

The Hon. F. T. Greenhalge then reported the following platform:

The Republicans of Massachusetts meet cordially congratulate President Harrison on the vigor, wisdom and purity of his administration. The great qualities of courage, firmness and judgment which have marked his course are implicitly relied upon by the country for deliverance from the impending reign of crude and reckless projects of legislation. We congratulate the Republican party and the country also upon the firm maintenance by the present national administration of the principles of civil service reform.

It is a cardinal principle of the Republican party that full and adequate protection should be given to the citizens of every state and territory in the union and it is essential to the government that the right of ballot and purity of elections should be unsullied and inviolate.

It is of paramount importance to the whole people to maintain the only true and safe standard of value in money; every dollar issued by the government, whether paper or coin, should be as good as every other dollar. We are unalterably opposed to the unlimited coinage of silver by this country, except upon a uniform international ratio to gold and under similar restrictions and conditions, both as to the government and individuals, as prevail in other leading nations of the world. We condemn the Democratic party for its condemnation of free silver in the party platforms of Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and sixteen other states. We again affirm our unwavering fidelity to the American system of protection and our belief in its inestimable value to the industries of this country.

We congratulate the country that the experience of less than a twelve months has already proved that instead of being fraught with disaster, as falsely prophesied by our opponents, the tariff legislation of the last congress has resulted in the greatest prosperity to the industrial interests of every section of the country. The charge of extravagance in pensions we deny; the charge of fulfilling our pledge to the loyal soldiers of the country we admit.

While honesty, intelligence and industry shall always find a welcome on these shores, the benefits of our institutions should not be extended to immigrants whose character or condition makes them elements of danger to the very institutions whose shelter they seek.

We favor the most efficient legislation of the Republican party for the prohibition, prevention and suppression of the evils arising from the sale of intoxicating liquors.

At 1:15 p. m. the convention proceeded to a formal ballot for governor. The ballot was completed at 2:23 and a recess was taken until 3 p. m., to allow time for counting the ballots.

The result of the ballot was announced when the convention reassembled at 3:18 p. m. The total number of votes cast was 1231. Necessary to a choice 616: Crapo 514, Allen 713, Hale 1, Long 1, Greenhalge 1.

Mr. Knowlton of New Bedford moved that the nomination of Allen be made unanimous, which was carried amid tumultuous cheering.

Ex-Governor Brackett in a speech which was frequently applauded, nominated for lieutenant governor the Hon. Wm. H. Hale of Springfield, and the nomination was confirmed by acclamation.

The other nominations of the convention were: For secretary of state, Wm. M. Olin; for state treasurer, Geo. A. Warden; for attorney general, Albert E. Pillsbury.

Mr. Allen was enthusiastically received and addressed the convention. He spoke briefly but to the point, and his remarks were loudly applauded. He was followed by Mr. Haile, who accepted his nomination in a brief speech.

Mr. Turner moved that the nomination of Mr. Kimball for auditor, be made by acclamation. The question was put and Mr. Kimball nominated, with but a few dissenting votes. The convention, then at 5:15 adjourned sine die.

New York Democrats.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 16.—With the decisions made on all contests, with the state solidly settled, with the platform all nailed down to its bed places, the delegates retired last night with a purpose to sleep to the latest moment before convention time this morning.

The result was that matters about town, which means about the most of hotels, were slow and sluggish this morning. There seemed to be no hints of contention to irritate the throngs. There was little anticipation of pyrotechnical scenes in the convention to quicken the political pulse. Breakfast was indolently discussed and duos, trios and squads of delegates sauntered complacently down the hill to the rink barracks from 9 o'clock to 10, when the convention should have been called to order.

As the time approached the gulf-like rink filled more rapidly. The policing of the hall was better than yesterday, and promptly at 10 a. m. the convention was called to order.

THE PLATFORM.

After the decision in regard to the County Democracy was presented the committee on resolutions reported the following platform and its reading began:

First—The Democratic party of the state of New York in convention assembled renews the pledges of its fidelity to the Democratic faith, and as regards national affairs reaffirms the doctrine of the national platforms of 1884 and 1888, endorsed by the popular votes in those years, and overwhelmingly ratified by the popular verdict in the congressional elections of 1890. We now as ever steadfastly adhere to principles of sound finance. We are against the coinage of any dollar which is not of the supreme value of every other dollar of the United States, we therefore denounce the new Sherman silver law, under which one-tenth of our gold stock has been exported and all our silver output is dammed up at home, as a false pretense but artful hindrance of return to free bimetallic coinage and as tending only to produce a change from one kind of monometallism to an other. We therefore unite with the friends of honest money everywhere in signalizing the American progression since Democratic law was in ordained of the gold and silver dollar, and as its appendix to the subsidy and bounty swindle, the McKinley worse-than-war tariff, the Blaine reciprocity humbug, the squandered surplus, the advancing deficit, the defective census, the falsified representation and the revolutionary prospective of the billion dollar congress—all justly condemned by the people's great uprising last November—a verdict which this time never must will empower Democratic statesmen to guide the people's councils and to execute the people's will.

Section two refers to the last Democratic assembly and the laws passed by it, which were defeated in the Republican senate, blames the Republicans for an incorrect national census, and for the loss of the World's fair to New York, and winds up with the declaration that "We demand a division of the various confused statutes regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors and the enactment of a just, equitable and comprehensive excise law framed in accordance with existing public sentiment as repeatedly manifested. We believe that all revenues, whether license fees or taxes, should belong to the treasurers of the localities under whose authority the licenses are issued, to be applied in reducing the burden of local taxation.

We are opposed to all sumptuary legislation that needlessly interferes with the personal liberty or reasonable customs of the people. We favor the largest liberty for the individual which is consistent with the public welfare. We demand an extension of electoral reform with the view to preventing the profuse expenditure of money by candidates and political committees, but we resolutely oppose any effort to hamper or restrict the constitutional privilege of manhood suffrage and we congratulate the people of the state that by the persistent efforts of the Democratic governor sustained by the Democrats in the legislature in defense of this principle there has been at last wrested from a Republican legislature by force of public sentiment a genuine electoral reform law which guarantees an absolutely secret ballot, which prevents intimidation and corruption, which reserves for workingmen the right to two hours on election day with right to vote without loss of pay for time consumed, which largely diminishes the opportunities of candidates to expend money illegitimately, which prescribes a careful system of registration of electors, which imposes heavy penalties for corrupt practices in elections, and which preserves inviolable so every citizen, however humble or unlettered he may be, the right to cast his ballot for whomsoever he may choose for any office within the gift of the people. We favor a revision of the tax laws whereby personal and corporate property shall be made to bear its fair and just burdens.

We favor a continuance of the policy which seeks to improve the canal systems of the state and maintains its efficiency.

The interests of labor should be fostered by proper and just legislation. Honest working men and women should be protected from competition with convict labor. The Republican party having had control of the legislature almost continuously for many years has withheld the necessary legislation required to adequately accomplish such purpose, and in this connection we denounce the failure of the Republicans last winter to enact the so-called Riley bill, designed by the working men of the state which had passed the Democratic assembly and had for its object the further restriction of convict labor competition.

We favor legislative provision for a proper exhibit from this state at the World's Fair to be held in Chicago in 1893, and we heartily endorse the action of the state authorities and district gatherings with a unanimity rarely equalled have pronounced the choice for the position which they desired to be made their leader by the delegations to the convention. He closed with a sketch of Flower's career. Col. John R. Fellows seconded Flower's nomination for governor on behalf of Tammany. Thomas DeWitt of Kings county, after Fellows finished seconding the nomination of Flower, mounted the platform and placed Col. C. Chapin in nomination for governor. Mr. DeWitt, in placing Mr. Chapin in nomination said: "We shall vote for him at the beginning and we shall vote for him at the last."

Burke Cockran also seconded the nomination of Flower.

General Catlin of Kings then took the platform and seconded Chapin's nomination. John D. McMahon of Canada seconded Flower's nomination.

"If the nominations are now done the chair will order a roll call on the nominating of Mr. Flower," announced Chairman Pelgar. Mr. McMahon, Deacon, and Secretary De Forest, at once began the call. The first response was for Flower and met with a cheer when D. Cady Herrick's name was called and he shouted "Flower," there was a demonstration. When the names of Henry W. Slocum, Richard Croker and Burke Cockran were called there were manifestations of applause. The vote stood: Flower, 334 for Flower, 43 for Chapin.

Frank Rice was nominated for secretary of state by W. C. Ely of Niagara, and it was made by acclamation.

Elliott F. Danforth was nominated for comptroller by S. W. Dunn of Binghamton and the nomination was made by acclamation.

R. B. Lyon of Bath nominated Frank Campbell of Steuben, and on his motion he was named unanimously for comptroller.

A CITY OF THE DEAD

Terrible Scenes Amid the Wreck of Spanish Floods.

OTHER NEWS OF FOREIGN LANDS

An Epidemic of Is Paris Over Wagner's Lohengrin—The Police and Cavalry Charge the Mob—Devastation in Martinique.

MADRID, Sept. 16.—The correspondents of the Spanish and foreign newspapers who have been able to reach Consuegra describe it as the city of the dead. On every side are the signs of destruction. The rumbling of the death cart grates horribly upon the ear as these ghastly vehicles convey their sickening loads to the common trenches dug for their reception. The streets everywhere are torn up, washed out and filled with all kinds of wreckage. Human remains with stretched limbs and hubless trunks are seen protruding from beds of mud-covered wreckage.

The depth of the floods at Consuegra can be gauged by the fact that the water rose eighteen feet in the church of St. John the Baptist.

An estimate made of the damage to property in and about Consuegra places the loss at $2,500,000.

The survivors of the disaster give vague and confusing accounts of rise and onward sweep of the flooding water which wrought such deadly havoc. They says however, that though the river was noticed to be rising rapidly, no serious apprehension was felt until the waters seemed to make a sudden rush forward threatening to overwhelm and eventually cover everything. Then came a wild race for life. Many climbed up on the roofs of houses to escape, but the buildings gave way beneath them as the swollen waters swept through the town, consigning hundreds to death in the wreckage-laden stream.

The majority of the dead have been buried as a sanitary precaution. Twenty-seven dead bodies have been found in one dwelling house.

A gendarme who escaped gives a thrilling account of the flood. He says that the disaster was preceded by a terrific storm of thunder and lightning. By order of the mayor he and several comrades hurried to the lower town. They found the water already neck high, and with difficulty saved thirty persons. The mayor appealed to all possessing carts to assist in the transport of people to the upper town. Only three responded, although 100 possessed conveyances. Ropes and ladders were procured with some difficulty for the rescue. The callous inhumanity of these to carry in contributed to the large fatality. Even those who houses were flooded seemed incapable of realising the danger. They were vainly begged to abandon their doomed dwellings. The storm abating they believed the danger passed and many at night fall, despite all entreaties retired to sleep in their houses. Soon the storm recommenced with redoubled violence, and the floods rushed rapidly, sweeping away everything with double fury.

THE MUSIC PROVOKES RIOTS.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The performance of Lohengrin to-night was a great success. The opera house was crowded and detectives occupied the seats usually reserved for the claquers, or hired applauders. A strong body of police guarded the corridors and adjacent streets, and carefully searched all comers. Many arrests were made. There was no special difficulty in obtaining admission, and the scene in the theater was not different from other nights of a fine or unusual production. The audience was largely of the cultured class, drawn by the love of art. It listened in silence and broke out in rapturous applause. The piece was well staged, mounted and finely produced. Van Dyck and others were recalled and applauded.

Outside in the street a very different scene was being enacted. Soon after the beginning of the opera the streets were thronged with a motley crowd of students, rowdies, Anarchists and quasi-patriots, singing the Marseillaise, shouting "Vive France," "A bas Wagner," and other cries, indicating their disgust with the performance. The police, alarmed at the rowdy, too noisy, proceeded to clear the thoroughfares. The mob sullenly defied the advancing guardians, but did not dare any serious attack. The police in great force rushed resolutely on the ground and assisted them by the sword, using and pushing them along until the streets were partly clear. Again the mob rallied and filled the thoroughfares and again the police charged, but without making much impression on the hissing and defiant throng. About 10 o'clock a body of mounted cavalry joined the police in a determined effort to clear the streets. This effort was more successful than the previous ones, and the mob retired before the powerful onset of the horses, and the menacing arms of their riders. The streets were at length freed from the crowd of obstructionists, but not before about 1,000 of the mob were prisoners in the hands of the police. Meantime a strong guard surrounded the German embassy, but no violence was offered there. A gang of about 200 roughs, however, smashed the windows of the German Cafe Hanson, thus representing the destruction done by the mob. All the prisoners except a few of the worst will probably be liberated in the morning.

The Martinique Hurricane.

PORT DE FRANCE, Sept. 16.—A. C. Grosholtz of 39 Church street has received a letter from Alfred B. Kerley, United States consul to Martinique, who is his personal friend. The letter, which was mailed at St. Pierre, Aug. 23, gives some further details concerning the terrible work of the West Indian hurricane which almost devastated the island on Aug. 18. Consul Keeley says:

"We have just passed through a terrible ordeal, as you have doubtless read in the evening papers of the day after. Your wildest imagination cannot picture the terrible affair and its results. Nearly every village and town in the island is totally or nearly wiped out of existence, and nearly 700 lives are reported lost. Morne Rouge is entirely gone, Porte De France nearly all gone and Fountain Chaude destroyed with the exception of the dining room and parlor. The hurricane demolished all the large mangoes and other trees which were torn to splinters and buried down the precipices. In fact, there is not a tree in all the visible part of the island that retains a leaf or small branch and in most cases they are torn up by the roots.

"My wife and an American lady were at the Fountain Chaude for a week, having gone up on the day before. They are safe, but badly bruised and suffering from the [illegible] were in total ruin.

"The hurricane lasted four hours, from 6 to 10 p. m. I felt it coming on and went home at 4 p. m. and barricaded doors, windows and shutters. The entire roof came down piece by piece, while tile, beams, rocks and large limbs of trees flew around and about like a terrific bombardment from grape and solid shot, while continual sheets of lightning played around, and a deluge of rain rushed down upon us. My house had water knee deep for four hours, as I did not dare to open the back—led doors to allow it outlet as fast as it came in. Everything in our house was saturated, (but thank God we are alive) and all suffered as badly or worse than we did.

"St. Pierre is entirely unroofed, the hotel De Reine [illegible] entirely unroofed, as is also the club house. The Mole is in a dilapidated and ship-wrecked condition. Not a [illegible] for shelter of any description is left in the port or island coast. Alas, the beauty of Martinique has gone for a time. Not a particle of fruit is left and scarcely a living animal."

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—There was an active buying at the opening of the stock market this morning both for home and foreign account. The activity continued unabated during the two hours of trade. The principal trading was in Atchison, Ontario and Western, St. Paul, E. R., North American, Union Pacific, Chicago Gas and Northern Pacific. With the exception of some hesitancy and a slight reaction after the opening, prices were strong throughout except for Union Pacific which was weak and pressed for sale and declined 1 per cent. by noon. A feature of the morning's trading was Ontario and Western which advanced 1 per cent., to 22, on a heavy buying, due to reports that the Vanderbilts had obtained or would soon obtain control of the road. At the opening all offers of the stock were quickly taken, London houses being the heaviest buyers. The belief is general that the Vanderbilt interests will manage the property after the annual meeting on September 30, in accordance with arrangements which are said to have been made by Cornelius Vanderbilt with foreign bondholders. The statement was made by parties identified with the Vanderbilt interests that the Vanderbilts had almost decided to take the property at the last annual meeting but refrained from doing so on the advice of Pierpont Morgan. Notwithstanding these reports the stock did not retain the advance in the early trading but fell back to the opening price. Subsequently it advanced a fraction. Missouri, Kansas and Texas was another strong stock, advancing from 25¾ to 27¾. At noon the general market was ¾ to ⅞ per cent. The sales for the morning were 204,000 shares.

The stock market, although active, during the last half of the day, was not so strong. There was considerable selling to realize at times under which prices yielded in many instances. Ontario and Western at the highest point sold at 22¾, an advance over yesterday's closing of 1¼. The fluctuations in the stock throughout the day were so heavy as to plainly mark the conflict of two powerful elements in speculation. Its price closed at 21¾, an advance of ¼ per cent over yesterday's price. The general list closed irregularly and mixed, with traces of the list fractionally lower. Sales 623,551 shares.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

The anti-[illegible] temperance convention was held at St. Louis.

The People's party state convention was held at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Flower has sent to the secretary of state his resignation as a member of congress.

In Chicago Artist Felix A. Blackburn, twenty-three years old, was mortally wounded by the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hand of his friend Anthony L. Coates.

At midnight the body of a man was found lying under a safe in the ruins of the "Commercial Advertiser" building, which was destroyed by fire on Aug. 11. It is thought to be the body of John Ashman, the [illegible].

The first [illegible] in New York was held in Tammany hall, when he spoke the sound of great rejoicing [illegible] Fair [illegible] was [illegible] elected.

[illegible] vice president and general manager of the Allegheny Heating company, Pittsburg, is short with $100,000 in the accounts. Mr. [illegible] lawyer, says it is only a mistake in [illegible] and it will be straightened out.

The Heublein Publishing Company, doing a printing business at 173 [illegible] Chicago avenue, Chicago, assigned to Wm. Heile, [illegible] and liabilities are about $40,000 each. The failure was caused by inability to collect outstanding accounts to meet demands.

The executive committee of the World's Fair has decided to send Dr. Hornby, of the department of electricity, to Frankfort to secure information in relation to the installation of electrical exhibits and to visit the electrical exposition now being held there. Dr. Hornby will start at once.

The Bijou Street Viaduct.

In about two weeks [illegible] will drive across the new Bijou street viaduct, but something unforeseen seems to delay the prosecution of the work. The iron work is about done and the [illegible] men of the Wrought Iron Bridge company are now engaged in putting the floor beams in place. The wooden approach at the west end is nearly done, railing and everything. The [illegible] approach is very well along and work on it is progressing at a lively rate.

This viaduct is much larger enough than most people imagine. A person who drove across it would traverse about one hundred feet of wood, iron and earth work, extending from the hill on the east side, well toward the hill across the valley. Its extreme length is necessary to enable teams to get across without climbing too steep a grade.

Driving down West Bijou street a person who was going over to Manitou [illegible] would first come to a grand wall [illegible] starting on the hillside [illegible] and running towards the creek for a little over 100 feet. Here a wooden approach some forty feet long leads upon the first and [illegible] span. This is an iron "overhead" bridge, that is, the roadway runs along at the bottom of the frame just as at the bridge at the crossing of West Bijou and Tejon streets, and the high sides of the [illegible] viaduct rise on iron piers on a stone foundation and is only fifty feet long. It leads to the main span, which extends over the tracks of the Denver and Rio Grande, and the Rock Island, 105 feet. This is too an overhead truss and is a big one too, the girders rising some twenty-two feet above the roadway beneath.

The next overhead span leads to the edge of the creek where it rests on two tubular piers. It is 77 feet long.

The creek is crossed by two spans which are set a great deal lower than the others, so that the roadway goes over near the top of the truss. They are each ninety feet long and rest on tubular steel piers three feet in diameter which extend down through the sand to solid ground. The two piers in the middle of the channel are firmly braced together by a "rib" of riveted steel an inch thick and eighteen feet wide. This divides the stream in times of a freshet, so that it will be impossible to wash the bridge away.

The last span which at the west end is 90 feet long and is very solidly made. Mr. S. Davidson who has charge of the work on the wooden approaches says that it is the most solid piece of wood work he [illegible] ever seen here. It is all [illegible] Texas pine and very heavily built.

The wagon dirt fill will be 400 feet long and is being made by O. W. Atkinson & Sons. They have sixteen teams at work and are taking dirt from both the creek bed and from the hill beyond Pike's addition. They are about half done and will be through in a week.

The roadway of the viaduct is twenty feet wide and both the iron and wood work is built on a twenty foot plan. The six foot sidewalk which runs along the south edge is solidly supported by strong brackets along the edge of the bridge proper so that a comfortable swaying is effected. The viaduct will be one [illegible] to the people of travel and a decided credit to the city.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION—FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE
REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE FOR THE FOURTH
JUDICIAL DISTRICT,
COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept 11, 1891.

A convention of delegates of the Republican party of the Fourth Judicial District is hereby called to meet at the Court House at Colorado Springs, El Paso county, on Saturday, the 26th day of September, 1891, at 7:30 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for District Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District, to be voted for at the election to be held on Tuesday the 3d day of November, 1891; to select a Republican district committee, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The several counties composing said district will be entitled to representation as follows:

Cheyenne	2	El Paso	8
Douglas	2	Kit Carson	4
Elbert	4	Lincoln	8

C. E. STUBBS, Chairman.
S. R. KIMBLE, Secretary.

The Larimer county fair association will hold its annual meeting at Fort Collins Sept. 22 to 25. The fair is intended especially to foster the agricultural interests of northern Colorado. These are sufficiently advanced to make the fair a most successful one, and with its special feature of a monument exhibit in honor of early irrigators it will doubtless be worth a visit from all parts of the state.

The original Alliance with its weird disregard for the foundation principles of finance and politics was attractive to a certain class of people who as they had little to lose were anxious to see what would happen if things were turned loose. The Alliance without the subtreasury scheme is naturally a non-political body because it has no distinctive feature. The break in its ranks effectually settles its claims as a political possibility for the present and sends it back like the grange, less powerful for good than if it had kept out of politics. The partisans of its original principles will hold on for a while, but its days as a political party are numbered. National prosperity killed it.

Western Democrats who have been bragging that their party was the only true friend of silver, will find little consolation in the New York Democratic platform. A denunciation of a law which has practically provided for the American product and which has made considerable permanent advance in its price, is not the way to convince western people of their sincere friendship for silver. The truth is that the Democratic party in Colorado and New York is in favor of such measures of state and national legislature as will capture the most votes. They have localized every question, whether of tariff, finance or anything else and in their inconsistency are thoroughly consistent to the idea of pleasing the majority of the voters as near as may be. An examination of the New York platform will show that a large part is abuse of the Republican party, another large part is an empty appeal to local pride and prejudice, and that what is left is of comparatively slight consequence.

Colorado college will open its fall term Sept. 22. President Slocum, who has been spending the summer in Europe, will reach the Springs about the 20th and other members of the faculty will be back by that time. Almost all of the corps of instruction will be in their places. Professor Loud, who has been pursuing special studies at Clark university, Worcester, Massachusetts, on a year's leave-of-absence, is expected to be back in his old position. Miss Wickard has already returned from her year abroad, much stronger than she has been for years, and will resume her charge of the English department. Dr. Murray, who was elected a year ago to the chair of Greek and has been doing special work in Germany during the past year, will be here in time to begin his work. Dr. Cregan, the new professor in geology and mineralogy, will greatly strengthen the scientific departments and is already in the city. An announcement will be made in a few days in regard to the new professor of Latin, whose election will very soon take place. All the other members of the corps of instruction will be in their places excepting those who were employed temporarily last year to fill the places of those on leave of absence. President Slocum and the board of trustees are working hard to make the college and the academy institutions of high standing, and it is a matter of congratulation that men of such ability and opportunities are being called to the various departments.

The New York Compromise.

Denver Republican.

The most important political campaign this year is the one in New York. New York has such a large electoral vote that it is likely to decide the presidential election. It is, however, more important to the Democrats than to Republicans, for the Republicans can get along without it, whereas the Democrats cannot.

The Democrats have the governorship and consequently the advantage of official patronage in the contest. But it is very doubtful if they will be able to elect their candidate for governor this year, notwithstanding this advantage. Mr. Fassett, the Republican nominee, is a strong and very popular man, and his nomination has awakened enthusiasm in the party all over the state. The Democratic convention will assemble today. Mr. Flower is the leading candidate, but Mr. Chapin of Brooklyn has a strong following. It is possible that neither of these gentlemen will be nominated, and that the convention will choose Governor Hill for another term as the party's standard bearer.

If either Flower or Chapin should be nominated the campaign from the Democratic standpoint would not be one of special interest. Either one of these gentlemen would poll nearly the full party vote, and the result would probably be determined by the floating vote, which sometimes is with the Republicans and sometimes with the Democrats. But if Governor Hill should be nominated, the campaign would attract wide attention and it would be watched with close interest.

The attitude of the independent or mugwump vote is in this connection interesting. The Times and The Evening Post, both mugwump papers, speak in complimentary terms of Mr. Fassett, but they do not pledge themselves to his support. However, if Governor Hill should be nominated, the mugwump vote would almost certainly go to Fassett, and it would be strong enough to determine the result of the election. If New York should go Republican this year it would very likely do the same thing next year. In that event the Democratic candidate for the presidency would be defeated, for, as we said above, the Democrats cannot get along without the electoral vote of New York.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL SUPREMACY OF ENGLAND. A Series of Lectures by the late J. E. Thorold Rogers, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Oxford, author of "Six Centuries of Work and Wages," etc. Edited by his son Arthur Rogers. The subjects covered include the progress of English population and the causes thereof; the development of credit agencies and of transit; the economic history of chartered trade companies; the joint-stock principle in capital and in labor; patents and copyrights; the theory of economic rent; large and small holdings; the movements of labor as effected by emigration and immigration; bimetallism; peasant agriculture and manufacture; home trade in its connection with domestic competition and international competition.

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND THE ENGLISH GRAMMAR, LITERALLY AND HYPERBOLICALLY. By Samuel Ratisey. In this work the modern doctrine of evolution is applied to language as a whole, to the English language as a particular example. The history of the language is here exhibited so far as is necessary to understand the growth of the lexical elements and the decay of its grammatical forms. The work will be of especial value to teachers and to readers who take an intelligent interest in the most forcible and widespread of human tongues. They will find the phenomena of their daily speech here illustrated by prolific principles, and not by barren mechanical rules.

Cold in Alaska.

"My experience with Alaskan winters was rather disappointing," said a member of the Alaskan boundary survey. "The greatest degree of cold we experienced was 50 degs. below zero, and that was when Mr. Turner extended his trip north along the boundary line to the Arctic sea. From what traders and missionaries told us of previous years it would seem that the winters of 1889, 1890 and 1891 were exceptionally mild.

"Even at the low temperature of this region the growth of vegetation is surprisingly rapid, but as there are only three months of growing weather this can be easily accounted for. I found grasses six feet high along the Yukon and Porcupine lowlands—a more remarkable fact when you consider that the Porcupine extends many miles above the Arctic circle. There are also salmon berries, blueberries, currants and raspberries in profusion and hundreds of acres of cranberries. Of the latter fruit the Indians store large quantities for winter food.

"When the work of tracing and establishing the boundary was completed the party set up a monument of rough stones, about twelve feet high, as a visible mark of the dividing line between American and British possessions. Of course there is a check on this in the shape of a securely concealed stone, properly marked, at the head of the base line, near the main station. When we were about to break camp it occurred to me that no photograph of the monument had been taken, so I took a camera and sighted it and then climbed on top of the rocks and had a curious native 'shoot' the machine."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Their Children Are Friendless.

A rather strange state of affairs was pointed out during the first production of "The Soudan" in New York the other night. Louis James, the erstwhile tragedian, is the leading man of the play. Some time ago he separated from his wife, Marie Wainwright, and it is said they do not recognize each other now, but on the evening in question Marie Wainwright's two daughters occupied a box in company with Mr. James' daughter and son. Notwithstanding the trouble between James and his wife, the four young people are said to be bosom friends.

PARIS AFTER THE SIEGE.

A CORRESPONDENT'S ESCAPE FROM THE HANDS OF A MOB.

Infuriated Parisians Thought Archibald Forbes Was a Prussian Spy and Were About to Drown Him in an Adjacent Fountain—Rescued by Soldiers.

On the 1st of March, 1871, the day of the entry of the German troops into Paris, rather a curious experience befell me. While as yet within the German cordon in the Place de la Concorde, I observed that I was being dogged. I had no sooner passed out of the cordon than I was vehemently assailed by an angry mob, who insisted that I was a Prussian spy. A police coup d'état rescued me at the bayonet point from the genial enthusiasts who were dragging me along the street on my back, with the expressed intention of drowning me in the basin of an adjacent fountain.

A good deal of my clothing had been torn off me, but that was a trifle. Over hauling myself in the police station, I discovered that along with half of my greatcoat had disappeared my notebook, which was in the pocket of the missing section of the garment. This was a most serious misfortune.

In those times I had accustomed myself to write out at full length in my notebook the description of scenes or events of which I was a witness, detailing in form ready for the printing the accounts of incident after incident as the incidents successively evolved themselves. From the summit of the tower of Longchamps I had looked down that morning on Kaiser Wilhelm's great review of his army on the race course, and my description of that remarkable scene, at least two columns long, was in the lost notebook.

One result of this concurrent writing out is that the writer's memory does not charge itself with the recollection of what has been committed to paper, and thus I had not only lost the actual "copy" already indited and out of hand, but was destitute of the power to reproduce the lost matter.

BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE.

While I was internally bewailing myself, a citizen in a fine glow of triumph rushed into the police station. "Voilà!" he shouted, as he waved aloft my notebook in one hand and my coat tail in the other. "Here is damning evidence that the prisoner is a wicked spy. Here are the villain's notes, the lies he has been writing down concerning our unhappy Paris!" I could have embraced the excited courier, frowsy as he was; he had done me an incalculable benefit in his effort to seal my doom. His face was a study when, in the gladness of my heart, I offered him a five franc piece.

Presently, under an escort of National Guards, I was marched through a couple of streets to the bureau of a sitting magistrate. My companions were a gentleman in a blouse, who was accused of having stolen an ink bottle; a tatterdemalion detected in selling a couple of cigars to a Bavarian cavalryman, and a woman whom the Paris mob had stripped and painted divers colors because she had been caught parleying with a Prussian drummer.

The magistrate was so good as to deal with me first. Fortunately I was able to produce to him my British passport and my journalistic credentials. He called in his sister, who had lived in England, to assist him in deciding on the authenticity of those documents. She promptly pronounced in their favor, and his worship became immediately gracious.

He told me I was free, and was good enough to lend me an old coat in which to walk to my hotel, at the same time gracefully begging me to excuse what he termed "the little inconvenience I had experienced on account of the not unnatural excitement of the Paris populace."

SAVED BY A WOMAN.

The magistrate's good sister sent me to a bedroom, where I washed off the most flagrant stains of the recent unpleasantness. Outside the mob was still howling fiercely. Time was very precious to me. I could not endure to wait indefinitely, yet I did not care to offer myself to the tender mercies of the gentlemen of the pavement. The sister in this strait proved herself a ministering angel.

She said there was a door opening in a quiet side alley, and actually offered to escort me to my hotel, which was close by. As we walked I told the good soul I did not know how to thank her. That is been her servant I could have found no difficulty in requiting the good office, but a lady——

"Oh," she broke in, "that is not so difficult. I will put my pride in my pocket. My brother has a fair salary, but he has not seen a franc of it for six months. We are genteelfolk; we cannot join the crowd outside the baker's shop, and, O mon Dieu! we are actually starving," and the poor woman burst into tears. "We could not take charity," she continued, sobbing, "but I have heard of that kind don anglais which, they say, is now being distributed freely; if only one could get a little aid from its bounty?"

We had a subdepot in my hotel; I myself was one of the accredited subalmoners; some of the commissioners were living with me. I hurried the lady into a room where there was no one to notice her emotion, then found John Furley and told him the little story.

THE PEOPLE WHO SUFFERED.

Furley is a man of energy. In five minutes a big hamper had been packed full of comestibles and a porter had it on his back, waiting for the lady's commands. With the chivalry of a fine gentleman Furley respectfully announced to her that one of his men was at her disposition. She came out into the passage, looked down at the great basket, whose open mouth disclosed inter alia a leg of mutton, a couple of fowls, a great honest loaf and sundry vegetables. She gave a great gasp and I thought she was going to faint. She was anæmic from sheer want, but she rallied, tears helping her, and then she went silently away, with her veil down over her face and the stalwart porter tramping behind her.

It was such people as those, with pride and fixed salaries which were not paid, who suffered worst during the siege, and they, too, it was who were the most difficult to relieve when the siege was over, but without as yet any alleviation of their misery. The women were the most stubborn.

The concierge would assure the almoner that the two old ladies on such an étage were literally starving. The two old ladies, when you pushed their button, would appear statelily gracious. Yes, they would say—yes, the English were a kind people, and the good God would reward them. There were some poor creatures in the roof who were in pressing need. For themselves, thanks, but no, they could not accept charity, and then the door would close on the wan eye and hollow cheeks. Ah me! it was melancholy work.—Archibald Forbes in Nineteenth Century.

MAINTAINING DISCIPLINE.

A Hasty Conductor's Attempt to Make a Passenger Respect the Boss.

Congressman Mason, of Illinois, told a story the other day of a somewhat remarkable experience he had not long ago on a one horse railway.

"There was only one passenger car," he said, "and it was full. So was the conductor. At all events I thought so from the way he addressed me concerning a valise by my side.

"'Take that thing into the baggage car!' he remarked very peremptorily.

"I looked at him somewhat surprised, and without making any response.

"'Do you hear what I say?' he demanded.

"'Yes, I do,' I answered.

"He went away to collect some tickets. When he came back about ten minutes later he looked angry.

"'I thought I told you to take that valise into the baggage car,' he yelled.

"'I heard you,' I responded, mildly.

"'Then why haven't you done it?'

"'Because I don't propose to.'

"'You don't, eh?'

"'No, I do not.'

"He roared, 'I'd have you know that I'm the boss of this train, and I don't put up with impudence from no dudes. You snake that bag out of here or I'll chuck it through the window in just two minutes.'

"At that moment we slowed up, approaching a station, and the conductor went out on the platform. More passengers got aboard, and when we came back several persons were standing up in the aisle. I just sat still, wondering to have been called a dude for the first time in my life.

"'What!' shouted the ticket puncher upon his return. 'You won't pay any attention to what I say, eh? Well, here goes!'

"With that he picked up the valise and threw it out of the car window. We were going at the rate of about fifteen miles an hour at the time. I said nothing, and a quarter of an hour later he came through again and spoke to me. Evidently he had been reflecting that possibly he had exceeded his authority.

"'I wouldn't have done it,' he said, half apologetically, 'only you tried me, and discipline's gotter be maintained on board a train.'

"'Oh, that's all right,' I replied, with entire composure.

"'Well, what are you going to do about it?'

"'About what?'

"'Why, the bag.'

"'Oh, nothing,' I said.

"'But weren't its contents valuable?'

"'I don't know, I'm sure,' I responded.

"'You don't know?'

"'No,' I said. 'It wasn't my valise.'

"My dear boy, you never saw a man so totally flabbergasted as that conductor was in all your born days. I got off at the next station, and I haven't the slightest idea how he managed to fix things up with the owner of the bag, who had left it on the seat beside me while he went into the baggage car to smoke."—Washington Cor. New York Sun.

Sight and Smoking.

The question of smoking was the topic under discussion, and one of the party advanced a theory that if a person were blind he could not tell whether he were smoking or not. The idea was scouted by the devotees of the pipe, and the discussion waxed warm. Finally it was proposed to make a practical test of the question, and lots on the spot were immediately got. A new pipe was procured and one of the tobacco users was selected to try the experiment. After his eyes were bandaged he was supplied with tobacco was given him. The experimenter heard the noise of a striking match, and when a few moments later he was asked if he was smoking he replied, "Like a tar kiln."

He puffed away contentedly at the unlighted pipe, and could hardly believe his eyes when the bandage was removed and he saw that the pipe was not lighted.

The bandage was replaced, and during the operation the tobacco was ignited by a taper, and when the pipe was given him the bowl resembled a young Vesuvius, but the smoker calmly insisted that no fire had been near it.

The experiment was tried on others, and almost invariably with the same result.—New York Times.

Fasting Spittle and Other Panaceas.

"Can any one tell me the therapeutical value of fasting spittle?" asked a quiet man; "I know that old wives, as the saying is, take great stock in it for warts, birthmarks, corns, bruises and even small cuts. Indeed, old nurses seem to believe that their saliva in the morning before taking food is a panacea for every kind of skin complaint. But did you ever hear of the map of an old beaver or silk hat being used as a styptic? You will find it a capital one, and for burns and scalds, if placed over the wound in sufficient quantity to keep out the air, it will draw out the heat rapidly, as any hat manufacturer will vouch.

"Deep sea fishermen and fishmongers generally hold that nothing is better than a piece of fishskin. Eelskins are commonly used to cure rheumatism, and are considered infallible by some. A negro minstrel once told me that nothing stopped bleeding and assisted nature's healing work so well as burned cork."—New York Recorder.

At the Court of a South Sea King.

A Narrative of Life on the Gilbert Islands, an out-of-the-way Group of the South Pacific Ocean.

—BY—

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

A new series of letters by ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, describing his experience and adventures in the Gilbert Islands. This is a group cut off from all regular intercourse with the outside world, to which no post goes, and where only occasional trading vessels touch.

Life in this strange place is most interesting and picturesque. The articles are full of incidents and anecdotes, delightful character sketches of queer people, and dramatic bits of dialogue. The narrative is as captivating as a piece of fiction, full of color, of movement, of strange situations and pictures. The material is altogether fresh and novel. In these papers Stevenson is at his best; they show in its full maturity the charming style of the most perfect master of English of our day.

I. IN A DESERT SEA. Arrival at Butaritari. Island characteristics. The King's palace not so commodious as a laborer's house in the United States. A visit to the King.

II. THE FOUR BROTHERS. The story of a South Sea chieftain. The King acts as executioner. The harem of a tropical potentate. A prince who was nicknamed "Mr. Corpse."

III. AROUND MY HOUSE. Strange sights from the writer's house in the Gilbert Islands. A sea wall built by the hands of queens. The toddy cutters. Beautiful women of the South Pacific. Only one white woman in the islands. A sample ruffian of the South Seas. The parson of Butaritari.

IV. A TALE OF A TAPU. The King of the Cannibal Islands on a spree. Curious scenes at Court.

V. MORE CONCERNING THE TAPU. Spies about us. Attack by natives. In danger from drunkards.

VI. THE FIVE DAYS' FESTIVAL. Invited to the King's summer house. A concert of native singers. A barbaric opera. A wonderfully dramatic dance. A South Sea topical song. A native who made a flying machine. A magic lantern show.

VII. HUSBAND AND WIFE IN THE GILBERTS. A Paradise of Naked Women. Polygamy in the South Seas. Etiquette among the natives. Scenes in a Gilbert Island.

VIII. THE KING OF APEMAMA. The royal tradesman. The hero of song and the butt of gossip. The last of the South Sea tyrants. A savage Napoleon. An island chief who owns ships.

IX. HOW THE KING BUILT A TOWN FOR STEVENSON. Constructing a city in a day. Waited by a taboo.

X. THE PALACE OF MANY WOMEN. A retinue of dusky ladies. An evening at cards with the King. A game of royal inventions. A kingly poet of the Southern Seas.

XI. OUR ATTENDANT FROM THE PALACE. Uncle Parker and his sleight-of-hand performance. The royal cook, and how he was disgraced.

HARVESTING THE HOPS.

THE BUSY DAYS AND MERRY EVENINGS OF THE PICKERS.

Hop Picking Combined with Money Earning—Which Annually Attracts Many Workers—An Industry of Growing Importance East and West.

[Copyright, 1891, by American Press Association.]

THERE is but one form of employment that combines social features and wage earning in a pleasing a combination, and that is the gathering of cotton. But while the latter is the work of the lowest classes in the south, mostly in deed being done by negroes, and takes place beneath a torrid sky, the former is the common pursuit of all residents in certain localities, and falls in a delightful season of the year. From the middle of August until the last of September, among the Catskill mountain regions of New York, through central Ohio and other middle western states and along the western slopes of Oregon and Washington the graceful hop vines are yielding up their riches. The pale green worn all through the heat of summer has changed to a deep brown, and thousands of busy figures are stripping the light cones from the delicate bearing stems.

The west is rapidly becoming the leader in the production of this important crop. The long valleys of the Pacific slope are being studded thickly with hop yards, and the annual output will soon exceed that of the famous hop regions of the Empire state. Clear skies, pure air, no fogs and no heavy storms are essentials to perfection in hop growing, and in these the Catskill region excels. But the same conditions are found combined with cheaper land in the newer states, and the advantage is increasing the production there.

When the hops are ripe they must be gathered at once, as their condition is easily injured. Hence the pickers are in demand in large numbers, and in the hop regions there is little else thought of for one or four weeks by rich or poor.

At the hop farms piles of cakes, pies and pudding have been prepared, for each is anxious to set the "best table," not only because of rivalry, but because of the necessity of winning a good name from the pickers in case of a scarcity of hands. For the hop farmers and others, not to those who are more blessed with worldly comforts. The proprietors are anxious for all to come, for there cannot be too many hands engaged in the harvest.

In many families, even those well to do, the annual hop picking is looked forward to as an outing equal in interest to a trip to the mountains or seashore. And when the time arrives there is a family exodus to the great fields. Father, mother and children work together, and even the white haired grandmother can sometimes be seen sitting in her easy chair between the rows, her head shaded by overhanging clusters of vines. Soothing is the fragrance of the hop bloom, imparting healthful zest to tired cheeks and inducing a pleasant drowsiness and a grateful sleep that seems new life into the workers, and makes them dream for months after of the sweet days among which their lot for a time was cast.

Scattered among the long rows of slender poles upon which the hop vines are trained, the pickers wait for the "pullers" to do their work. These are usually the farm hands and go from pole to pole, pulling each one from the ground and laying the hop vine near the foot. The vines are thrown down for the pickers to strip of hops, while the poles, when stripped, are piled for use next year, when the vines shall have sent up another crop of shoots. The process of picking is by no means as easy as huckleberrying or scuppernonging. The hops must be carefully stripped from the stems and no mixture of leaves is allowed.

As the hops are picked they are put into bags, though many of the workers first throw them in sacks, baskets or even open bushels. The main box is divided into four compartments, each holding eight pickers. There are four pickers to a main box each having his division to fill, and the number of boxes picked by a person depends on the size and quality of the hops the pickers's ability. When four young people get by themselves they are apt to be a little skittish, the compartments, but workers can average from two to four boxes daily.

Each main box has a "leader," who is called the "puller," and has for his duty the stripping of the poles, stripping vines, cutting the hops in the box free from leaves and stems and that none are wasted.

IN THE HOP FIELD.

So records the amount of work done each picker and so regulates the wages. When a box or compartment is full the contents are sacked by the tender, who keeps the tally. Every hand is carefully inspected, and woe be to the picker who has slighted his work and left leaves, stems and hops behind. Once sacked there is no more handling of the product in the field, and wagons haul the field to the great barns for drying. The "setting," consisting of three rows on each side of the box and six poles in the end, having been completed, the attendant pickers are moved for another "setting" is begun. So, merry jest, good natured rivalries and sharp repartees, the work goes on, the pickers looking forward eagerly to the day when they receive their pay.

Mrs. Frederick Sheldon, the daughter of the high spirits of the company are all, and have to show well calculated to warm to the hearts of the housewives. Selecting some shady spot beneath an old tree, or in a cluster of woodbines near running waters, the table is spread and the pickers gather around, jesting and laughing as they fully devour the feast of goodies provided. In some localities where towns or villages are near the housewives bring their own dinner, in which the noonday meal is likely to consist of variety of a picnic feast to which contributes his or her share. In any case it is a feature of the day and the young people checked boys and girls look forward to it with pleasure.

Two repetitions do they consider it, however, as one other period of the day—the evening. When the nimble fingers have completed their day's task of stripping the hops from the fragrant vines, and have made healthful and pleasing by hand the balance of great bowls of bread and milk, has been eaten, the young people are for the real enjoyment of the year. Years and months they have looked forward to the picking season, and an elaborate programme of sport is prepared in advance to be partaken of alike by the pickers on two or three farms if near enough for the purpose. Each night is a party by itself.

Many of the hop farms are great barns, with luxurious lofts and wide, far-reaching beams and binns. Lanterns are hung here and there to the timbers, and an inverted hop box a fiddler takes his seat. The boys and girls, young men and women, in homely clothes, but with light hearts and graceful, if robust, bodies, troop into the building, prepared for the dance. There are no fancy figures or elaborate marches. Such good old fashioned melodies as "Money Musk," "Jersey Boys" and "Down the Middle" are the fiddler's delight. His resonant voice wakes the echoes among the rafters and startles the swallows from their perches in the gables as he sings out, "Forward four," "Balance to the right," or, most delightful of all, "Swing yer partners an promenade off." The society youths of the metropolis might find much to criticise in bearing and gesture, but no swell ball on the avenue ever awakened happier hearts. As the hours go by the older persons who have been sitting around the edges of the whirling circle commence one by one to take a hand in the fun, and at last there is scarcely a foot that is not keeping crazy time, a head that is not bobbing rythmically in time with the tune.

But dancing is not the only method of passing the hours. Sometimes there is no fiddler obtainable and games are resorted to. With innocent abandon the boys and girls take naturally to the "kissing games," and never tire of their amusement. "Post office," "Snap and catch 'em," "Forfeits"—who that was brought up in an eastern country neighborhood can forget them? The delicious feints of skill or the possibilities of chance that brought the shy lovers together were like a providence to their innocent hearts, and they took it as an interference with their rights that the crowd should applaud the eagerness with which the swain pressed his lips to his sweetheart's cheek in full view of the audience.

THE DANCE IN THE BARN.

Sonks would follow, and gathered on the moonlit side of the building with bunches of odorous hop vines for couches, the sweet if not trained voices made as delightful music as any prima donna ever gave to a crowded opera house. To those who heard it it was the acme of melody. Doubtless it was really crude and ill-rendered, but it came from the heart. The repertoire is not usually a long one. The favorite is likely to be "Nellie Gray" or "Juniata." As some sweet girl voice leads the chorus in the latter:

Juniata, Juniata, let me linger by thy side:
Nita, Juniata, to my heart a sweet bride, many a young lover is likely to look with more fervor into his sweetheart's eyes and half whisper the words after the singer. Gospel hymns follow, and as the moon sinks low in the west the tenderness and even sadness of the selection deepens.

But there is work to do on the morrow. Clear brains and quick fingers are needed, and by midnight the lanterns are extinguished and the pickers have retired to slumber alone in the barn, others in spacious farmhouse bedrooms, while many wish go better resting place than a bed of hop vines, with a canvas on poles above for protection from the dew.

Invalids who for weeks have sought in vain for the place of "nature's sweet restorer, sleep," are sometimes able to find a blessed unconsciousness by resting their heads on hop pillows. But what is that to the sensations of those whose beds are made of the fragrant vine itself, whose nostrils drink in the potent influence of the plant, and upon whose tired foreheads beats the soporific power as a benediction and a gift? It is the essence of healthfulness personified, and the hang workers who enjoy it here for naught a delight that many would give small fortunes to attain.

Acres are nearly 100,000 acres devoted to hop culture in the United States, about one-half being in New York, while the Pacific slope comes second in acreage, and rapidly increasing market for the product, not alone in the manufacture of beer and ale, but in many articles of food and for medicinal purposes, continues to make the business profitable. Those who deal heavily in hops say that at fifteen cents a pound there is a good return to the farmers. At that price they can pay the pickers fifty cents a day and board them in some cases even more.

CHAUNCEY MOLTON HANDER.

New Voice for England's Anthem.

Much to the astonishment of those who know the democratic and radical views of Henry Labouchere, that gentleman some time ago offered, through the columns of his paper, the London Truth, a prize for the best "additional stanza for God Save the Queen" from an imperial federationist standpoint of view." Here is the winner.

Far o'er the rolling main
Extend the royal sway—
God save the Queen!
One grand united band,
Pray we through every land,
God guard our empire and
God save the Queen!

BICYCLING BREVITIES

Nearly all the races in France are ridden from the scratch, as handicapping is not popular.

Chicago wheelmen are talking of an international bicycle tournament during the World's fair.

A. A. Zimmerman and Hoyland Smith will compose one of the swift tandem teams this fall.

Willie Windle says that he has ridden two miles in 5m. 0s. on a pneumatic safety.

The Bearings states that the use of such stimulants as cocoa and kola by racing men is on the increase, and that the stimulants have apparently proved harmless.

The bicycle corps of the Connecticut National guard was highly complimented for its efficiency in carrying dispatches, patrol and advance guard work by Lieutenant W. H. Bowen, of the regular army, in his report to the war department.

Wallace R. Lin, aged sixty-seven, of Newton, Ia., is one of the oldest active bicyclists in America. He travels to and from work on a wheel.

Wheeling is booming in Wisconsin, and Milwaukee riders are talking of a tournament.

An international bicycle tournament at Madison Square Garden, New York, from Oct. 19 to 24, inclusive, is said to be assured. Thomas W. Eck, of Minneapolis is the leader of the enterprise.

What He Wanted to Know.

He was an Irishman, a husband and about to be a parent. Intensely interested as to the sex of his first born. He heard the doctor's footsteps descending the stairs, and rushed to meet him with "Sure, doctor, am I a father or a mother?"—London Globe.

Miss May Talmage to Wed a Rich Irish Merchant.

Miss May Mortimer Talmage, whose engagement to Daniel D. Maugam, Jr., a wealthy young Irish merchant, has just been announced, is one of the handsome and brilliant daughters of the famous preacher, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage. She accompanied her parents to Paris some time ago, and on their return spent a month at Nice for a few months, returning to Brooklyn but recently.

Miss Talmage's marriage, which is to occur early in the winter, will deprive her father of a valuable secretary. After the event, there will be but two of his five daughters left in the eminent pastor's house—Maude and Daisy, who are yet schoolgirls. The ceremony is to take place in the Tabernacle, and will be the first event of the kind to be witnessed within its walls. It is reported that Frank DeWitt, the doctor's only living son, also contemplates a matrimonial alliance at an early day.

Serious Condition of Chinese Affairs.

The Chinese are having lots of trouble. Their attempts to exterminate the missionaries have brought to their ports numerous foreign war vessels, and it is among the possibilities that the great seacoast cities of the empire may be bombarded. Besides, the land from end to end is afflicted with drought, which causes much alarm and distress. In many provinces little images of the god of war are put out in the sun to scorch, so that the deity may appreciate the dry and parching condition of his subjects. At one famous monastery in Hunan upwards of ten tablets were kept in a sacred well, and when rain is wanted in any portion of the district a tablet is taken out of the well solemnly by the priests and sent to the distressed region. The bearer is obliged to travel night and day, for the inhabitants of other districts are on the lookout to intercept the tablet and secure its virtues for their neighborhood. On its arrival the tablet is worshiped until the rain appears, when it is sent back again with a similar tablet bearing the date and record of the event.

AMONG THE BALL PLAYERS.

Utica, Elmira and Auburn baseball men are anxious to help form a New York state league.

One of the best games played by the Eastern association this season was the recent sixteen inning game at Rochester between Rochester and Lebanon. The score was 3 to 3 at the end of the first half of the sixteenth inning. Then Lebanon pounded out one run.

A new rule of the American league gives a player who is hit on the head or neck by a pitched ball not only a base, but a run also.

In an eleven inning contest at Washington recently, pitcher Fitzjerry, of Washington, held Baltimore down to five hits.

Arthur Whitney is a new addition to the St. Louis team.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1891.

CALL FOR REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

[illegible] that on Saturday, Sep[illegible] 1891, the Republican electors of precinct No. 8, El Paso county, Colorado, will meet to [illegible] delegates to the Republican county convention, to be held Saturday, Sep[illegible] 26, 1891, and also to choose by ballot [illegible] Republican candidates for justice of the peace and constable.

The electors will meet according to ward lines as they existed at the fall election in 1890. The wards comprising precinct No. 6 are entitled to the following representations in the county convention:

First ward	6
Second ward	2
Third ward	2
Fourth ward	4
Fifth ward	3

The places for holding the primaries and the judges appointed are as follows:

Ward No. 1—Court house. Judges: E. S. Jordan, C. A. Eldredge, H. M. Blackmer.

Ward No. 2—W. R. Roby's office. Judges: Harry Shook, S. H. Kinsley, L. J. Waite.

Ward No. 3—Building in rear of R. C. Bartlett's residence. Judges: G. O. Nevins, Otis Rockwell, W. R. Barnes.

Ward 4—City hall. Judges: F. A. Mansfield, H. M. Scott, F. L. Rouse.

Ward No. 5—Street car barn. Judges: H. P. Bosworth, W. D. Marlow, George Baird.

Ward No. 6—Hose house. Judges: W. A. Copper, F. F. Rice, G. F. Green.

Polls will open at 3 o'clock and close at 6:30 o'clock p. m.

By order of the Precinct Committee.

M. H. IRVINE, Chairman.

Miss Helen De Longe has organized a sketching class, which will meet at 1535 North Weber.

The Lake Moraine dam is practically done and there remains nothing to do now but the rip-rapping.

Mr. C. Smith, an old gentleman from Freeport, Pa., is visiting Mr. G.W. Atkinson, accompanied by his grandson.

The Rapid Transit company is extending the Cache la Poudre street switch to Dale street on the North Tejon street line.

Mrs. Effie Ayres, the wife of Mr. J. C. Ayres, of this city, died at their home on Tuesday, aged 26 years. She leaves two infant children.

The Rocky Mountain Loan and Investment company is preparing to occupy the north room in the lower floor of the Rossa building.

During the absence of F. B. Hill from the city, Under-sheriff A. B. Belshin will act as agent of the Colorado Humane society with all Mr. Hill's powers.

Colorado Springs Lodge, A. F. and A. M., which has been working under a dispensation ever since its first organization, has been granted a charter by the grand lodge.

A large and very fine new photograph of the "Inclined to build the Pike's Peak road" humorously tinted from a plate just made by Mr. Hook is on exhibition in the window of the Novelty book store.

Prof. Amos G. T. Murray, who will fill the chair of Greek for the coming college year, and Mr. Crosman, of geology and botany, have arrived in this city for the opening of the college next week.

Mr. Hall, the brother of Mr. R. B. Hall, circulator for THE GAZETTE, arrived in this city yesterday from Kansas. This is the first time in ten years that the two brothers have seen each other, and it took them some time to get acquainted.

Colorado Springs is in the center of the garden spot of the world, judging from the samples of fruit and produce brought to THE GAZETTE office. The last is a bunch of four apple trees bearing eighteen big apples. They are from the ranch of Mrs. Rice, south of town.

Miss Mattie Cheney, of Minneapolis, will talk in the parlors of the M. E. church this afternoon at 3 o'clock upon the work of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union. Young women who are anxious to help in this work are invited to meet Miss Cheney at that time.

Geo. J. W. Breaning, head clerk of the Pueblo jurisdiction of Woodmen, was injured at the Clear Creek railroad wreck on Sunday, and therefore a large company of Woodmen from Colorado City and Manitou as well as this city who had gathered to hear him on Tuesday evening were disappointed. He will visit the city later.

Reserved seats for the engagement of Richard W. Keene at the opera house Monday evening will be in demand, especially as they will be sold at popular prices. This will be the only opportunity our people will have of seeing Mr. Keene for some time as he is now booked in the east for the coming two years, and he is the only tragedian booked at our opera house this season.

Invitations to the P. O. S. of A. entertainment and ball on Friday evening are out. The committee have all their arrangements complete, and an evening of enjoyment is in store for those who attend. The hall will be elegantly decorated. After the regular entertainment in cover, games and amusements of various sorts will be furnished for those who do not care to dance. Miss Gracie Hopkins has prepared several new pieces for the occasion. Mr. Marshall Stedman's name is also on the programme. Barnes' orchestra will furnish the music. The entertainment will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and dancing at 9 o'clock.

The First Congregational church and Sunday school will picnic at Cascade Canon Saturday of this week. The train will leave the Santa Fe depot at 9 a. m. and returning will leave Cascade Canon at 5 p. m. The members of the Sunday school will go free. For others the price of tickets will be, adults 50 cents, children 25 cents. All who go upon the excursion are asked to bring provisions, and a common table will be spread. Tickets may procured at the station. Come early to the station in order to secure your tickets in good time. The train may be taken also at the South Tejon crossing, and tickets may be procured of the members of the committee after 8:15 a. m. Members of the committee will also be at the Santa Fe depot. Of them only tickets may be obtained as the railroad ticket agents will not have any for sale.

Richard III.

Mr. Thomas W. Keene, whose dramatic ability is beyond question, will appear at the Opera house Monday evening in a production of "Richard III." Mr. Keene is one who, through his painstaking and discriminating efforts, has attained an enviable eminence as a tragedian. His portrayal of the different moods gives evidence of deep thought and a careful study. Much of his success is due to untiring investigation and incessant labor, but the greater part is due to his inborn genius.

Keene is somewhat different from the other great tragedians who adorn the American stage, in that the fire and vigor of youth still remains. Take the elder Booth, for the time being he is the character which he represents. Step by step he has climbed the ladder of fame until there seems but little left to gain. He has surrounded himself with a company of players far superior to that of any of the great tragedians now on tour. George Learock, who will himself be one of the brightest stars in the theatrical firmament next season, is his leading [illegible]

Political Notes.

Judging from the names that have been presented to the Republicans of the county for the office of county commissioner, it would seem that the people were sure of a good officer, no matter which one should be selected. The candidates so far are Mr. J. C. Woodbury, the present incumbent, who has the advantage of experience in the place for several terms, and whose work has been generally satisfactory; Mr. F. L. Rouse, who has been a resident here for many years and is well known in business circles, and who is at present a representative of the Fourth ward in the city council; Mr. Albert Matthews, who is also well and favorably known and is familiar with the county and its people and their needs. With such excellent material to choose from there will be no trouble in getting a good commissioner.

It has been rumored that Mr. F. G. Perkins would not be a candidate for re-election to the office of county assessor. The report is without foundation. Mr. Perkins has done faithful work in this position, and has many friends who believe that he deserves another term of office.

County Matters.

The county commissioners met yesterday and decided to advertise for bids for a new $30,000 county jail to be erected on the same lot as the county hospital. The contractors must furnish plans and specifications with their bids. The conditions of the bidding are given in another column. The work will be begun as soon as possible and will be pushed to a rapid conclusion.

The work of rebuilding the road through Ute Pass, destroyed by the storm of Aug. 15, has been completed and at a cost of only $1,800, as against $10,000 as it was at first predicted the cost would be. The road is now in better shape than ever before.

In the Court.

[illegible] Charles Smith vs. The Denver, Texas and Ft. Worth Railroad Co. This case is now on trial and will be [illegible] today. The plaintiff sues for damages for the loss of an eye while employed in coupling cars at Manitou junction.

All motions for new trials in criminal cases will be called up today and disposed of. The defendants will probably be sentenced immediately thereafter. There are [illegible] convicted of felonies and [illegible] of misdemeanors.

A number of counsel from abroad were in attendance yesterday. The case of General Case and Mr. Servis of Fremont, and Judge Wanzel and Mr. Morgan of Denver. Court will be [illegible] this morning.

Into River Market.

New York, Sept. 16.—The Pacific yesterday [illegible] in anything paid, according to the usual proportions for the last half of the month. Today the full government quota of $4,500,000 ounces for September was completed. The great London bullion brokers have long since discovered that the proper card for them to play is to withhold all orders for American silver until our government is out of the market for the month. A little coin, flag of the London silver market, which they contend, [illegible] the commercial price so low that [illegible] silver here, are anxious to avoid accumulating a large stock and towards the close of the month the Londoners buy at large concessions in price of silver as they need for India and the continent.

This happens with every silver month and is likely to continue so long as the abnormal government demand continues to create temporarily an artificial market for the metal.

Unlucky Soldiers.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Captain Crozier, U. S. A., has sent to the inspector general of the army his reports on a series of inspections of the Second and Third regiments Kentucky National Guard, during their annual encampment. Captain Crozier says that the material of the regiments, both officers and men, with few exceptions, is good and with opportunity, good instruction and under the government of the articles of war, they would make excellent soldiers. Not a single case of drunkenness came under his observation during the week in camp. He is confident, he says, that the regiments have been much improved and that the object of the encampment was, in a great measure, fulfilled.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern:

Certain persons who are supposed to be interested in other hotels at Manitou and Colorado Springs, have diligently circulated the report that I will not open this season.

This is not the fact, but on the contrary, the Sunny Side House is doing a good business and will remain open for the fall and winter trade.

Now, the Sunny Side Hotel has never suffered in its business from the lies that are annually circulated in the fall about its being closed, but its owner and proprietor is getting tired of it, and I, W. H. Rogers, will punish to the full extent of the law, any person or persons who put in circulation lies or misstatements about me or my business, to my injury.
